

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THIS Catalogue is derived from the books in the library and from two imperfect but not unfaithful lists of titles. It is largely indebted to the laborious alterations; and to the attention, generously offered, of Mr. Cogswell, formerly of the Astor Library. Thanks are due to the unfailing kindness, the learning, and the counsels of Mr. Ezra Abbot, one of the librarians of Harvard University. Many suggestions from Mr. Henry Stevens, and some of the notes, should be acknowledged. The present form of the Catalogue, however, is due to the editor, Mr. Cutter, librarian of the Boston Athenæum, who has prepared the manuscript for and carried it through the press.

The library of Mr. Sparks possesses valuable, quaint, and unique volumes. There are also many not always easily found, which correspond to his expressed intention to "own every book he might wish to use." For its "Historical MSS." it has long been known. These papers were collected with intuitive skill and increasing ability during various tours, undertaken since 1819 for the purpose: first, in the thirteen original States; often elsewhere in his own enlarged country; three times in prolonged visits to Europe; by means also of his extensive correspondence during the years 1819-1866. These letters are arranged in sixty large volumes, with a daily index. The Journals of the tours point out the deposits of many unknown treasures; sketching scenes, characters, and incidents; thus preserving information, and reproducing reminiscences of a period far more remote.

The Bound Historical Manuscripts, now the property of his son, with a conditional reversion to Harvard University, were at once placed within their own oaken cabinet, in the library of the University. Mr. Sparks, himself disabled from the fruition of so much preparation, by an accident which never ceased to affect his right arm, felt every suffering alleviated in the gratification which he could afford to others. He used these treasures with a lavish and cheerful bounty which told nothing of the patient endurance of the daily disappointment he could not always conceal from his familiar friends. Their effects are already to be traced in the many useful works which acknowledge these sources of information ; perhaps, as has been said, in the more critical investigation, more enlarged interest, and more zealous research which have been stimulated in others. Through his foresight they must have an increasing influence upon historical literature in the development of that Good he sought, of that Truth to which his life was devoted.

I have thought it well to add to the Catalogue a list of these papers, which the editor has been enabled to prepare by the kindness of the officers of the University Library. Though necessarily brief, it may serve as a guide till a more complete calendar shall be published.

M. C. S.

NOTE.

IN the preparation of this Catalogue all exaggeration in describing the condition and value of the volumes has been studiously avoided. The epithets scarce and rare have been sparingly used ; perhaps it would have been better to omit them altogether, since the collectors of American rarities may be supposed to know what books are rare, and the students of American history care more for the importance and authenticity than for the scarcity of the works they would buy ; moreover, experience soon teaches the latter that publications of the sixteenth century relating to America weigh against gold ; that American imprints of the seventeenth century require a long purse in their purchaser ; that books and pamphlets on our Revolution are not to be found in every bookstore, nor even in every library, historical or general ; and that many works relating to the early settlement of the West have excited an interest in readers fatal to their preservation either at the West or the East. To those who know these facts, a slight examination of the Catalogue will show that some of the books are extremely rare, that a very large proportion of the library is uncommon, and that nearly the whole of it is of decided historical value. Mr. Sparks selected his books very carefully ; he had a keen eye for whatever could be of use to him in the great historical works which he performed or which he meditated ; and he had both the will and many opportunities for procuring what he needed ; in consequence, his library has attractions for both the bibliomaniacs and the scholars, — not that the two are always distinct classes.

The Catalogues put into my hands, have been revised as carefully as circumstances would permit. I have not in general been able to compare the titles with the books, and have therefore been obliged to leave some things which appeared to me of doubtful accuracy. A few titles of books which may not now belong to the library have been inserted from Mr. Sparks's list ; these are generally to be known by the absence of any description of the binding. The notes signed J. S. are generally copied from memoranda written by M. Sparks on the fly-leaves of the volumes to which they refer.

C. A. G.

auspices of the British African Society was his strongest wish, "pausing at Morocco, studying one year in Timbuctoo the manners, customs, institutions, trade," with other information, following "the Niger to its mouth, which is probably a large lake in the interior," thence to "proceed to the Cape of Good Hope, Abyssinia, Egypt, or" other coasts. The African Society did not accept the proposition of the Harvard student.

In 2716. View of Fort George, New York, 1763.

ATLAS, by William G. Faden, Geographer to the King.

In this important atlas the maps illustrate the War until the battle of Yorktown, Oct. 1781. The Table of Contents is a Manuscript. The N. E. Boundary Line on the map of the British Colonies (1777 is given), contrasts curiously with the shrunken Line which with great indulgence marks the subsequent concessions on the next map.

MAP of the United States of North America, according to the Treaty. Engraved by Wm. Faden, 1783.

Mr. Sparks speaks of it as "a curious map" published in London before the treaty was ratified. These maps were much consulted on the question of boundary in 1842. In the "N. A. Review," April 1843, Mr. Sparks says "Faden's map of 1785, is the earliest English authority produced in favor of British claims. A copy was brought over by Lord Ashburton. The Maine Commissioners called it a small one, of small pretensions. A map worthy of more consideration is that published 1783, by Faden. It is about two feet square, and the boundaries marked on it correspond with the greatest exactness to the American construction of the Treaty. Faden points to the Province of Sagadahoc as a new concession." Mr. Sparks observes of him, "No man in England was more competent." "We are bound to regard this map as conclusive of English opinion at that date." It is thought that this map cannot easily be found in our public libraries. This copy was used in the discussions of 1842. Neither is common.

The costly MS. of Homer and Alcedo were procured at an expense hardly exceeded by that incurred for any of those now placed in Harvard Library.

The Bound Historical Manuscripts, of which a List is attached to this Catalogue, should have been marked as those conditionally bequeathed to the Library in which they are now deposited.

They are of course not included in any proposed sale.

 8° London, by Richardson & Urquhart, 1780

The very considerable additions to this third edition are indicated in the table of contents. This is no doubt an interesting and important collection of Papers, but the compiler has managed to twist them to conform to his own views. The work was highly commended by the "Monthly Review." But Mr. Sparks has written on the fly-leaf the following more just estimate of it: "It is the principal object of this collection of papers to attack and injure the characters of Sir William Howe, Lord Howe, and General Burgoyne. Facts are everywhere distorted, opinions are perverted by prejudice and a vindictive spirit, the representations are extravagant and often false."

"Copied in 1843 from the original manuscript in the possession of Mr. O. Rich of London. The original was found by him in Madrid. This volume contains 1300 pages." — J. S. It cannot be necessary to dilate upon the importance of this manuscript. It has never been published, nor has it been superseded by later publications. Moreover, the insertion of notices of the lives of the authors is a feature of the very highest value.

- 1635a — BIBLIOTHECA AMERICANA, by Arthur HOMER, D. D., Fellow of Mag. Coll., Oxford. Half turkey morocco. 12 vols.

"This work was intended for publication by the author, and he sent out printed proposals for that object. But it was never published. After his death, the manuscript was purchased by Sir Thomas Phillips of Middle Hill, Worcestershire, in whose possession I saw it in November, 1840. By his permission the original manuscript was sent to London, where this copy was made for me in 1841." — J. S. The work extends to 1600 pages, closely written. With an autograph letter of the author to the Rev. Wm. Bentley, of Salem, Mass., who furnished the author with valuable information, and whose knowledge about books relating to America was important to various European scholars, as evinced by his contributions to the collection of the Ebeling Library, now in the Library of Harvard College. This work, too, has never been superseded. It should be secured for some public library.

"This volume is rare, and particularly valuable as containing Marquette's narrative of his voyage down the Mississippi, nine years before La Salle. The map is extremely curious, as being the first that was ever published of the Mississippi river." — J. A. The engravings to illustrate Swammerdam's natural history, are, with one exception, admirably distinct and delicate. The only deficiency in the volume is, that it does not contain the map advertised in its table of contents, entitled: "Carte de la Découverte de la Terre de Jelmér;" a deficiency also found in the copy in the library of Harvard College.

7. Plan of the Redoubts near Philadelphia, Ap. 1778. A rough sketch, somewhat torn.

8. Plan of the Works on Winter Hill, near Cambridge, July, 1775.

9. Sketch of Roads about Springfield, N. J.

10. From Springfield to Morristown.

11. "Plan of Rhode Island, the different Operations of the French Fleet and the American Troops," etc. From the 19th to the 30th of August, 1778. Somewhat defaced, but very well executed.

CHARLOTTE, N. C. Plan of the Route of the Enemy from Charlotte. Signed "Nelson fecit; — non fecit, scripsit." 9x14. 12 Oct. 1780

; This route is marked with a dotted line between Charlotte and the Catawba River.

FORT CONSTITUTION. Two very early sketches, probably sent in January, 1778, a discussion having arisen in favor of the site of West Point for a fort. It had been suggested by Gov. Clinton, was favored by Putnam, but opposed by Rاديère, the engineer. Each 19x15. May, 1776

On one of these Mr. Sparks has marked the site of West Point, then a blank; the fort there was afterwards constructed under Kosciuszko. On the other he has written, "See Lord Sterling's Letter to Washington, June 1st, 1776." This Fort was destroyed by the British, Oct. 1777.

FORT CONSTITUTION. Plan of Fort proposed on the East of Fort Constitution, by Isaac Nicoll. 12x13. Isaac Nicoll, '76

Folded, as if sent by letter to Gen. Washington.

FORT CUMBERLAND. "A sketch of the Situation of Fort Cumberland."

12x12. July, 1768

This is in the handwriting of Washington. It is his own sketch of his position. The Block House, and "New Store," which he considered so defenseless, are the only separate buildings. Will's Creek is marked, the road along its bank to the Fort indicated, and the "Road towards Fort Duquesne." On this road all prospect of victory depended. The influence of Washington, then 26, was used in vain, and Braddock's defeat followed. This is Washington's sketch of his dreary position where his judgment gave him little hope of success.

FORT ISLAND, with the batteries on the banks of the Delaware, by Major Henry.

13x8½. 16 Oct. 1777

Explanations in French and imperfect English. The shoals are marked "almost drowned," or "drowned in heigh tide." The author intimates that his "barbouillage," sketched on a gun-carriage, without rule, compass, or measure, is but an "approximation," interrupted by the bursting of two bombs, one of which carried away his "écritoire," the other furrowed the place where he sat.

FORT MIFFLIN, by Lewis Henry.

15x19. Nov. 10, 1777

"In Muddy land." Represents the fortified banks of the Delaware, position of the ships, line of fire, Hog Island, including the confluence of the "Schuikill" and Delaware. Labelled by Washington "Mudd Island." This belongs to a very interesting series, made by one of the besieged, a brave officer, whose Journal was daily forwarded to Washington.

FORT MIFFLIN, with twenty references in French and English.

13x16½. November 10, 1777

"Muddy land, almost drowned in heigh tide." "The Engineer, author of this imperfect Draugh begs indulgence for it; Considering that he has not paper, pen, rule, neither circel, and being disturbed by good many Shells or cannon balls flying in the fort. Lewis Fleury."

FORT MIFFLIN. Plan of attack, with ordnance, distances, "floating battery," and references. Nov. 1777

It is directed to "his excellency Gen. Washington, head Quarter," and labelled by him "Mudd Island attack. Plan," near the Seal. By Mr. Sparks these three maps are labelled, "Plans of Fort Mifflin and of the Attack."

FORT MONTGOMERY; a distant View on the Hudson.

FORTS ON THE HUDSON.

Plan of Hudson's River and Martlett's Rock, afterwards Fort Constitution, destroyed Oct. 1777. 31x13. 1776?

In two similar sheets, both worn as by use. The first is a sketch with careful soundings of Hudson's River "at half tide" from Stony Point to Polypheme's Island. At Martlett's Rock, afterwards Fort Constitution, the "landing," the curtain fronting the river with 14 mounted cannon, "the wharf, store house, Block House, and Barracks" are marked. The opposite site of West Point is marked by a tree somewhat larger than either. Burr's house is there, Moore's, Vorplank's, the Points, Ferries, and Creeks, Tarrytown and Fort Montgomery, Antony's Nose, and Poop Lopes Kill. "By good information there is a wagon road from Poop Lopes Kill to West Point."

Haverstraw and Tappan Bay occupy the second and similar sheet. With "a Table of distances by Computation, having no Instruments to ascertain the true bearings." 31x13. 1776?

"Drawn by request under the Inspection of the Commissioners of Fortifications in the Highlands, province of New York, by James Grinnell."

Hudson's River through the Highlands, from "Hansbroock's to King's Ferry." A drawing dedicated to his Excellency George Clinton. By Thomas Machin. 18x46. 4 Jan. 1778

Geo. Clinton was Brigadier General of Militia, was often in command near the Hudson, at Fort Montgomery and in various expeditions. Gen. Washington, Aug. '77, congratulates the Council of Safety at N. Y. on his appointment as Governor. His anxiety for New York rather outstripped the judgment of others, but if this was an error it was more than forgiven by his fellow citizens. As a map, it is a curious sequel to the two previous sketches. Houses with one chimney have thickened; among those with two is Robinson's. The tragedy of its hospitality softens even the memory of treason. Poop Lope Kill has become Poplopens. Many country roads are distinctly drawn. West Point is well fortified, and from Antony's Nose one may see Fort Clinton in communication with Fort Montgomery.

A Rough Map of Fort Montgomery, showing the situation of Pamplepe's Point, Ground plan of the Buildings, &c., &c. G. T. P. Hudson's River. 16½x19 Mr. Sparks has added, "For the explanation see Lord Stirling's letter to Washington, dated June 1, 1778."

GERMANTOWN. Sketch of the Surprise of, by the American Forces commanded by Gen. Washington. 19x22. 12 March, 1784

A the-simile traced from a map by Lieut. J. Hills, 4th Oct. 177 published in London by William Faden, Geographer to the King.

HOBKIRK'S HILL Battle. 19x13½. 1 Aug. 1783
A the-simile traced from a map by Col. Henry Vallancey, 25th April, 1781, and published by William Faden, London.

PHILADELPHIA. "View" of the Enemy's fleet. Sent to Washington by Lieut. Fleury, 19th Jan. 1778.

The names of the English ships are written beneath each. The French spelling of the other names is quaint.

QUEBEC. "Plan of Quebec." With the Americans besieging it. By Gen. Arnold. Winter of 1778.

"The siege of Quebec."—J. S. Very carefully drawn. The river is encumbered with ice. The points of historical interest are numerous; as the position of Head Quarters of his troops, "where the materials are carried to build our batteries, out of view of the town," the spot where Gen. Montgomery fell, and where "the dotted line shows the Route the troops took under the General through deep snow without any path."

STONY POINT. 16x13. 3 July, 1779
Written "Stone Point." Labelled by Gen. Washington and marked by him. "From Gen. Heath, 3 July, 1779." "The importance of these two points to the enemy is too obvious to need explanation."—Stony Point was taken 15th July by Wayne, and Washington says to Congress, "Lieut. Col. Fleury commanded one of the attacks." Therefore this is the map employed.

STONY AND VERPLANK'S POINTS, and the works of the British army. Marked "North or Hudson River." Very carefully drawn in a similar position to that sent by Gen. Heath to Washington, and found with that in Mr. Sparks's Library.

VIRGINIA. Virginie, Maryland, en deux Feuilles, par Fry and Jefferson. Traduit, corrigé, augmenté. Two maps. Complete in themselves.

28x19. Paris, 1777
Col. Joshua Fry, who died at Will's Creek, was born in Somersetshire, England, educated in Oxford, a Professor of Mathematics in William and Mary's College, Virginia, afterwards a member of the House of Burgesses, and distinguished as a public man. Several of Washington's letters from Great Meadows, 1784, are addressed to him. With Mr. Peter Jefferson he ran the boundary line between Maryland and Virginia, and published "a map which has great repute," and is in fact very remarkable for that date. Mr. Sparks quotes, "He was a man of so clear a head, so mild a temper, and so good a heart, that he never failed to gain the esteem of all who knew or were concerned with him." These "Feuilles," are "corrigés, augmentés," from their English map of "the most inhabitable parts of Virginia,"—then a comprehensive term, "engraved by T. Jeffries, London, 1761."

[The following are among the MSS. Maps of great interest, as being apparently copied, combined or made for Mr. Sparks:—]

BATTLE FIELDS of the Revolution. Eleven Manuscript Plans. On cloth, folded. 25x33

Monmouth, Valley Forge, Yorktown, Barron Hill, Battle of Long Island, Forts Clinton and Montgomery, Fort Washington, White Plains, Trenton and Princeton; Brandywine, Germantown. These are all skilfully prepared for Mr. Sparks, and labelled by him, and form a complete and perfectly preserved set.

BRANDYWINE, BATTLE OF. "In which the rebels were defeated."

18½x22½. Sept. 11, 1777
From Werner. A beautiful colored drawing of the country and position around the Brandywine. "The Birmingham meeting-house is one mile from Osborne's Hill. Between these places the battle was fought on ascending ground."—Journal of J. S.

FORT SCHUYLER, Siege of. Drawn by Lieut. Fleury. 11x16½. Sept. 1777
A copy made by G. H. Bowen for Mr. Sparks.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN, Arnold's action on. 22½x11. Oct. 12, 1776
Labelled by Mr. Sparks. A slightly tinted sketch, highly finished, from an English original, with account of the battle and elaborate lists of the two fleets, the commanders of each vessel, her ordnance and fate. A large English force is described, beside "thirty fighting vessels."

"TICONDEROGA." "Copied from the map used at Gen. St. Clair's Trial," and also used by Mr. Sparks. 13x19. 1777

VALLEY FORGE. 13½x23½. 1777
On the back an autograph note from Gen. Armstrong says: "This sketch was obtained through a son of Gen. Wayne, from William Davis, Esq., an intelligent and very remarkable gentleman who resided within limits of the camp during its continuance there." The sketch was presented to Mr. Sparks by Gen. Armstrong, in 1833.

VALLEY FORGE. Brouillon et Plan de Camp de Vallee Forge. "Encampment at Valley Forge." 11½x15½. 1777

A sketch delicately executed for Mr. Sparks. The position of some redoubts in this map is believed to have been altered at General Lafayette's suggestion. Lafayette rode with Washington when the work was dictated by him "as it seemed to me by magic, by an intuition of which I had no conception."

YORKTOWN and GLOUCESTER, Va. A Plan of York Town and Gloucester, in the Province of Virginia. Fac-simile, beautifully traced from an actual Survey by Lieut. John Hills, with the attack and operations of the American army, on a scale of nearly 500 ft. to an inch. Published by Wm. Faden, Geographer to the King. 29½x23½. London, 7 Oct. 1784

The following nine maps, preserved in the same envelope, are those referred to in the following extract:—

"Lafayette has drawings of all the actions in which he was engaged in America, and also a map of the Virginia campaign. . . . He has allowed me to take them to Paris, rue Faubourg Parisienne, No. 36, from the MSS. at Lagrange, and they were all copied under the eye of Lafayette." — J. S.

BARENHILL, Penn. Plan de la Retraite de Barrenhill en Pensilvanie. Gen. Lafayette was surrounded by the English and Hessians. Beautifully finished and colored. With fourteen notes on the battle. 17½x21½. 25 Nov. 1777

GLOUCESTER, Carte de l'action de. 17½x21½. 25 Nov. 1777
Apparently by Legende. Colored and highly finished. The action was between Lafayette and the troops of Cornwallis.

MONMOUTH, Battle of. 14x29. June 28, 1778
Beautifully finished. The title is in the handwriting of Mr. Sparks. The map in fine order.

MONMOUTH, Battle of, between Gen. Washington and Gen. Clinton, of the English army. Legende. 16x19. 28 June, 1778
This French manuscript map is finely designed and executed. The story of the battle is well indicated, beginning with the first batteries of Gens. Lafayette and Green, and Lord Sterling. Colored, with 24 references.

MONMOUTH, Plan de l'affaire de. Legende. 28 June, 1778
A map similar in notes and finish, but not the same. Slightly tinted. Apparently taken from the other.

RHODE ISLAND, ISLAND OF. Plan de Rhode Island, avec les différentes opérations de la Flote Française et des Troupes Américaines. 14x20. Aug. 9-31, 1778

From the 9th to the 30th and 31st of August, when the Americans retreated. Two beautifully finished and very interesting maps of Rhode Island; the hills of the Island, the private estates, the residence of Bishop Berkeley, with other familiar sites, are delineated. Here, too, is Narra Gansett Bay, the positions of the hostile fleets of Count d'Estaing, and Lord Howe, the intended point of junction of the French troops with Lafayette, and the course of the subsequent retreat. Mr. Sparks has added the house where Gen. Prescott was captured by Barton, near which the skirmishing began. 26 references. 4-5 mile to 1 inch.

Carte des Positions occupées par les Troupes Américaines apres leur Retraite de Rhode Island, le 30 Août 1778. 15x21. Aug. 30, 1783
Colored. With the positions of Gens. Lafayette and Sullivan at Tiverton and at Providence, Mount Hope, Seekonnet Point, Narra Gansett Beach ("Boston Neck"), and Point Judith.

TRUDRUFFIN, British Camp at, from the 13th to 21st of September, with the attack made by Maj. Gen. Gray against the rebels near White Horse Tavern. 19 references. 11x17. 1777

- " 5. Letter to Mr. Sparks, accompanying copies of this correspondence of Lafayette with General Washington during the Virginia campaign, also of letters relative to the campaign of 1781. La Grange, March 23, 1830.

[On account of the unique interest of the following letters relating to Lafayette, they will be offered separately.]

AUTOGRAPH OF LAFAYETTE, marked by Mr. Sparks, "Written in Prison."

The letter, dated Magdebourg 15 Mars, 1793, is addressed to the Princess D'Hémin. It contains 4 pages, and is a painful sketch of the sufferings and exhaustion of himself and his companions, and of the strong, drear, and unwholesome citadel itself. "I have," he says, "neither ink, nor pen, nor paper. By a miracle I possess this sheet, and I write with a tooth-pick. I know not how it will reach you, I entreat the most inviolable discretion, on which the fortune and the life of another depends."

It is enclosed in a letter to General Washington, labelled in his handwriting, "From J. B. Church, Esq., 16 Aug. 1793," beginning, "The Princess D'Hémin has confided to me the enclosed letter from our unfortunate friend Lafayette, with a request that I would convey it to your Excellency." Washington had already forwarded 200 guineas. The Index to his "Life and Writings" points out 14 letters from him on this subject. The son of Lafayette was cherished in his own home at Mount Vernon.

[The following will also be separately sold.]

Letter from Gen. Burgoyne to Gen. Gates, Cambridge, Dec. 12, 1777, complaining of payment in gold; of the desertion of his soldiers. Alluding to the delay of embarkation, also to Major Ackland.

[The Original, or a very early copy.] From the manuscripts of George Chalmers. Bought in London, 1843.
- 4 BERNARD. The Papers of Sir Francis BERNARD, Governor of New Jersey, and afterwards of Massachusetts. 13 vols.
Vol. I.-VIII. Letter Books. 1758-72. New Jersey, Massachusetts.
Vol. IX.-XII. Original Correspondence. 1758-79. Massachusetts.
Vol. XIII. Orders and Instructions. 1758-1761. New Jersey, Massachusetts.
With repeated signatures of George the III. and the great seal, also autographs of Wm. Pitt, and Hillsborough, memorable chiefly for his subsequent conference with Franklin. Bought in London, 1846.
These papers contain the official letters of Gov. Bernard, written from New Jersey, until he left his residence at Perth Amboy, (sailing in the "Province sloop" sent from Boston, July, 1760,) — after that from Massachusetts and from England. He was an earnest man, sufficiently so to suffer from the earnestness of others. He was not wholly insensible to the folly of the home government. While subjecting all things to their interest, he was not unconscious of the interest of her colonies, nor unwilling to share any prospect for good which might open before them. He was active in the service of the "Indian College." It should be not just here, nor there, but in the desirable location proposed for it "in our township." His suggestions were not unwise. He strongly urged the settlement of the ten townships in Maine, having plans, not too philanthropical, of transplanting there the few hundred reluctant French, still left in New England. He was eager about the settlement east of the St. Croix, the river next to the most westerly river which enters that Bay." These lands however, ranged east, north, and west of his own grant of Mount Desert, "an island well adapted" to the making of potash. Thus it is that the relics of her noble forests must now be sought amid precipices rarely scaled. The Governor forfeited his American estates. His son, however, remained on hand in Maine, and eventually shared with Mme. de Gregoire the unoccupied land of that silent Acadia.

The Province of Massachusetts had long been a thorn in the side of Great Britain. She called for armies, and their success bore spoils exclusively to her own feet which passed all her expectations. She demanded profit. Why not with the same result? Certainly not an unprofitable, Massachusetts was not a comfortable colony.

Insubordination, confusion, alarm, are the successive complaints of these interesting letters. The Governor suggested troops. The letter arrived for a regiment to be ordered from Halifax. Such was the effort of England. Sir Francis writes: "Gen. Gage, who knows my situation, when death is publicly denounced against those who are concerned in bringing troops here, is so kind as to conceal the contents of the dispatches from me. One regiment will be enough for safety, but not enough to awe the town." June 25, 1768, he is "anxious about Castle William" (afterwards Fort Independence, now Fort Warren), but relieved by Com. Hood [see three Portraits, No. 2107.] There are now about the Castle [see engraving in Views and Designs] one 50-gun ship, two sloops of 16 guns each, and two armed cutters." "I have been much persuaded to go to the Castle when the troops shall arrive. I do not choose to show a want of resolution; a short time will shew whether Boston is to belong to Great Britain or not." Aug. 8, however, he writes from "Jamaica Farm." "I am charged with leaving the town when the troops arrived. At that time I resided at my house in Roxbury, four miles from Boston. I was at the Castle before the ships had all come to anchor, and every morning before ten o'clock." (It seems he had not remembered to give the officers the expected dinner.) "We have determined to remove the troops to Boston." Aug. 20-22, the attempted "distribution of stamps" was followed by the attack on Hutchinson's house. The Governor now dates from Castle William, Sept. 18, '68, he suggests the prorogation of the Assembly to Salem, doubts not his own power, but requests an order from London. "I am wholly at the mercy of the mob. I have no place of safety to resort to but this fort, with a weak garrison. Here, I have got my wife and younger children."

After his return to Pall Mall, however, there is still for the governor a "bitter disappointment." His son omitted to forward from America two casks, ordered by Lady Bernard, of cranberries. "The house full of guests, and no fruit in season for pyes."

45 REVOLUTION. British Papers relating to the American Revolution; selected from the Correspondence of the British Commanders-in-Chief. 1775-83. 2 vols.

Sir Guy CARLETON, afterwards Lord Dorchester, was the last commander-in-chief of the British Army in America, during the American Revolution. The official papers of his predecessors, Sir William Howe and Sir Henry Clinton, came into his possession when he took the command. These, with his own papers, were taken by him to England at the time of the Peace. After his death they fell into the hands of another person (Mr. Simmons, his secretary), who presented them to the Royal Institution in London. I examined them all in November, 1840, and made the following selection. The originals are comprised in more than forty volumes.

Judge Marshall considers the speech of Sir Guy Carleton to the Indians a forgery. Mr. Wm. Smith of Quebec wrote to me: "I passed several days with his Lordship. He told me 26 Oct. 1803, that he made his speech in Feb. 1794 out of his own spontaneity; that he received no orders from government."—Journal of J. S.

105 WARTON. Vita Iohannis Fabricii, Militis Angli, scripta Anno 1685.

Life of Captain John Smith, in Latin. Copied from the original in the Lambeth Library, London, at my request, 1833.

Among very many similar obligations, Mr. Sparks felt perhaps most deeply the many kindnesses of Lord Holland, the proofs of which did not cease with life, and his important services, in which Sir James Mackintosh took an almost equal share. Not less persevering was the interest of the Marquis of Lansdowne. Conspicuous among his good offices was the free offering of his family (the Shelburne) papers. Lord Brougham "insisted that in case I should find any difficulty in prosecuting my historical researches in London, I should apply to him, and he would aid me in any way in his power." "Throughout the whole business, I have received from Lord Normanby the greatest courtesy." The politeness of Sir Henry Ellis, and of Sir Francis Palgrave; the friendly deeds of Colonel Aspinwall, and Mr. Petty Vaughan, "who was never weary of doing good acts,"—all were held in grateful remembrance. Our own ambassadors in France as in England, were true to the interests of American History. In Sir Robert Peel alone an obstacle was found. He was supposed to be "influenced by opposition to the wishes of Mr. Huskisson," whose active exertion was most obliging. A reference to Sir Geo. Murray overruled the difficulty. "I have the strongest reason to be gratified with the civilities and language of the Earl of Aberdeen" in the Foreign Office, where was the Oswald Correspondence, etc., etc.

In the British State Paper Office were found the New York and New Jersey Papers, "which had hitherto been overlooked, and are very valuable." Hence were derived other important MSS., and also from the Royal Institution, the Privy Council Office the Board of Trade, the British Museum, the Office of Journals and Papers, and many private collections. All was so arranged that Mr. Sparks was enabled to have copying continued in Europe, and to send for manuscripts for himself, and to point them out to others, naming hall, shelf, and page, during the years which followed his return to America.

At every point of his journey from Brussels through Bonn, Göttingen, Leipzig and Frankfort to Paris, he was fortunate. On his second visit, 1840,—that he might pursue researches commenced in 1828,—instructions were given for their continuation by the courtesy of M. Guizot, the Minister of Foreign Affairs at the French Court. This gentleman published about that time his translation of Mr. Sparks's "Life and Writings of Washington," introduced by a noble essay on the subject. In 1828, after three and a half months of labor, all the work of Mr. Sparks was taken from him by order of M. Rayneval, when all his friends, M. Ferronays, La Fayette, le Comte d'Hauterive, Hyde de Neuville Féroussac, and the Marquis de Marbois, whose literary labors he had shared, had left Paris. Not allowed to copy, he at once began an abridgment of these MSS. in his own hand. "But the historical materials will amply reward me for the labor. . . . Should no ill luck befall them, they will one day become a tribute of great value to the History of the United States." In these archives he afterwards found the letter of Franklin to the Count de Vergennes, describing the map on which he had marked with a STRONG RED LINE the boundary of the United States, as fixed by the treaty, and here among the maps it was found, — a map almost as much opposed to American claims as was the map presented to George III. at the same time by the English Commissioners to those of Great Britain. "My researches were continued in the archives till I had examined all the papers relating to the United States, and taken notes and extracts of all that I deemed important." The MSS. relating to France and Spain were considered of a very delicate nature, and Mr. Sparks felt bound to restrain himself in selection where all, with this caution, were left to his discretion. He allowed none to be published, except so far as they supplied historical facts and illustrations. From the War Department there is a "curious" manuscript relating to Braddock's defeat, and the subsequent war in America. The very valuable papers relating to La Salle, Tonty, and Joliet, are chiefly from the Marine Department; and the Bibliothèque Royale furnished an original Journal of Iberville's voyages, a missionary's account of the Illinois Indians, 1693, "What Pericault saw during four years in Louisiana," and Bernard de la Harpe's voyage, 1718-22. Among other friends from whom he acknowledged much kind attention were M. Champollion, M. Jomard, M. Mignet, and M. de Tocqueville, in a part of whose work on America he was pleasantly associated. "Paris is the spot where more knowledge can be obtained on a given subject than any other." The valuable information owed to Lafayette, was conveyed, not only in person at Paris, and in the daily intercourse at La Grange (Journal), but in abundant manuscripts transmitted fully to America. "I can," said Lafayette, "conceive of no better employment for myself." A list of the French officers who served in America is derived from the kindness of Mr. Warden. The remarks are dictated by Lafayette.

The Depot de la Guerre was rich in details of the military affairs of America, and of the Canadian wars, containing the correspondence of Montcalm and papers relating to the mission of the Baron de Kalb. But nowhere was found any paper sustaining the charges on the affair of Jumonville.

During the tour of 1840, Mr. Sparks continued to select with laborious care, in France as in England, many important works for the University at Cambridge, whose fine collection was thus greatly enriched.

NOTE ON HOMER'S "BIBLIOTHECA AMERICANA." (See Catalogue, No. 1638a.) — A printed prospectus of this unpublished work Mr. Sparks found during his residence at Mount Vernon, among the papers of Washington. He could discover no clew to the MSS. until the year 1840, when, chiefly to examine it, he passed a week among the large collections of Sir Thomas Phillips, whose "liberal and generous hospitality" was not confined to the receptions in his own house. He was permitted to take the Manuscript to London, and have it copied Friday, 6th Nov., 1840. "There are five volumes, one of which appeared to have been his first sketch, and the other four the work as completed. In the whole they extend to about 1600 pages closely written, being a list of books relating to America, as far as he was able to find them, or their titles, alphabetically arranged according to the Authors' names, and the principal heads of the subjects of anonymous works, with references to the Libraries where they are to be found. Altogether it is a work of extraordinary labor and of great intrinsic value." "Mr. Homer was a fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford." "Examining Spanish Manuscripts, Miss Phillips has copied the full-length portrait of Montezuma, which I shall send to Mr. Prescott, with the titles of these papers and some account of their contents." He mentions the "draft of a bill for taking away the charters of all the proprietary and charter colonies 1687, never passed," and a similar report from the Board of Trade to Queen Anne.

NOTE ON ALCEDO'S "BIBLIOTECA AMERICANA." (See Catalogue, No. 1638.) — It will be proper to call attention here to this work, and to add to the previous note that the anonymous titles are arranged in a supplement, and followed by an Index to the whole work.
